Who do we support?

We are available for all South Australians who are living with a terminal illness, their families, their communities and their services.

How do we support?

We support individuals, families and communities through FREE education, conversations, information and events. We support palliative care services (including hospitals, hospices and aged care) through scholarships, networks, study tours and grants.

Why do we support?

Death is a part of life. We talk to many dying people and a common thread appeared: that it is possible to live while you are dying. With the right support, people can achieve their bucket lists and live the best life until the end.

Palliative Care South Australia is only partially funded by government and relies heavily on the generosity of South Australians to continue to operate.
